

Schedule:

Sun, Jul 3	Arrival; Welcome Buffet Use of Digital Cameras
Mon, Jul 4	Lab: Best practices, Editing digital images, mp3
Tue, Jul 5	Site: Capitoline hill & Museum, Tiber Island Lab: Digital image projects
Wed, Jul 6	Lab: Creative Web Content
Thu, Jul 7	Site: Roman Forum, Palatine, Colosseum, San Clemente
Fri, Jul 8	Lab: Google Apps for the Classroom, Google Earth
Sat, Jul 9	Site: bus trip to Pompeii, overnight Villa Vergiliana
Sun, Jul 10	Site: National Museum Naples, Cumae, Solfatara, Lago Avernus, Piscina Mirabilis, overnight Villa Vergiliana
Mon, Jul 11	Vesuvius, Sperlonga, return to Rome
Tue, Jul 12	Lab: Building websites
Wed, Jul 13	Optional Site Visit: St. Peter's, Vatican, Montemartini, Massimo, Altamps
Thu, Jul 14	Lab: classical software, online resources, mobile technology
Fri, Jul 15	Site: Ostia
Sat, Jul 16	Lab: Final presentations Group Farewell Dinner
Sun, Jul 17	Departure

Instructors:

Julian Morgan (J-PROGS & Medusa Training) has taught Classics for more than 25 years and is author and publisher of a wide range of Classics software. Since 2003 he has been the UK partner in the EU's CIRCE project, committed to providing electronic support for Classics teachers across Europe. Julian teaches Latin, Greek and Philosophy at the European School, Karlsruhe, Germany.

Paul Gwynne (AUR Assistant Professor of Classics, Director of the Honors Program & Interdisciplinary Studies) He holds a B.A.(Hons) in English/ Latin, an M.A. in English Renaissance poetry, a Ph.D. from the Warburg Institute of the University of London, and a Diploma in Paleografia, Diplomatica e Archivistica from the Vatican. His site visit lectures in Rome showcase the classical tradition and the contribution of Rome to Humanist studies.

Cindy Caltagirone (National Latin Exam & ACL Webmaster) has taught high school Latin for 17 years, both in the classroom and through a national distance learning program. Recently she has been working for the Information Technology Training Branch of the US Courts' Administrative Office as project manager of technical training.

Cédric Ebner is a teacher of Latin/French at Loyola High School, Los Angeles. He is passionate about the use of technology to provide meaningful educational experiences for his students. He and his students utilize Web 2.0 technologies like multi-media presentations, Google Earth, YouTube, Twitter, Facebook and other internet based technologies to study Julius Caesar's de Bello Gallico, Latin, and other topics of the Ancient World.

Rome: in Situ & in the Lab 2011

A Two-Week Study Tour & Technology
Workshop in Rome and Campania sponsored by the American Classical League
and its Technology Committee

American University of Rome

July 3-July 17, 2011

Pantheon

Deposit

$200 per person due January 15, 2011; refundable until February 15. Balance due March 15.

NOTE: A surcharge or refund may apply if the foreign exchange differs significantly by then. Plane tickets should not be purchased before final confirmation is received (March 31).

What's included:

14 nights of accommodations (2 in Villa Vergiliana); 15 meals plus snacks; bus travel & entrance fees for all museums & sites on itinerary; bus/tram pass; course materials; administrative costs.

What's not included:

Airfare/travel to/from Rome, passports, personal items, airport transport, additional meals, digital camera (required).

Numbers of participants:

The course is designed for a minimum of 30 and a maximum of 50 participants.

Colosseum

Pompeii & Mr. Vesuvius

Costs:

Full Participant: $ 3,477* double occ.

Partial Participant: $ 3,277* (must be an adult accompanying full participant) double occ., excludes lab workshops & materials. (free time during labs-see schedule).

Graduate Credit: Full participants can opt for an optional 3 humanities credits ($596) and/or 2 technology course credits ($424) from Ashland University.

plus required $100 insurance fee.*

Scholarship Funds:

Scholarship funds are available from the American Classical League and other organizations. For ACL scholarship information, go to www.aclclassics.org.

Registration and Contact Information:

Rome 2011 Workshop-Tour
American Classical League
422 Wells Mill Dr
Oxford, Ohio 45056
tel. 1-513-529-7741
info@aclclassics.org
<http://www.aclclassics.org/rome2011>

Who should go:

Teachers of Latin, Classical Studies, related fields, and other interested parties. Travel companions (adults only) are welcome to attend and participate in all activities except computer lab workshops, if desired.

Why you should go:

To visit some of the most significant classical sites in Rome and Campania and learn how to record those experiences for instructional applications in the classroom, using the latest technologies.

Location & Accommodations:

The American University of Rome (www.aur.org) is conveniently located on the Gianicolo hill, just across the Tiber River from the historic center of Rome, above the Trastevere area. Participants will stay in furnished apartment suites in the area which include a bath, kitchen, and sitting area.