The College of William & Mary Hosts Spring 2008 Meeting

Members of the Classical Association of Virginia met on the campus of the College of William & Mary on May 3rd to conduct business, to note the results of the annual competitions and to engage in both scholarly and collegial pursuits. William & Mary Provost P. Geoffrey Feiss greeted the members with remarks on classical pursuits in general and, specifically, in the Department of Classics at the College of William & Mary. The business meeting of the organization followed with reports from the treasurer, Max Meador, and the newsletter editor, Cheryl Ryan. President Gregory Daugherty thanked the editor for her service to the organization and noted that Cathy Daugherty would be taking over that position with the next issue. Nominations Committee Chairman, Sue Roberston (Midlothian HS), announced the slate of officers for 2008-2010:

President, Laurie Covington (Flint Hill)
 Vice President, Andy Becker (Virginia Tech)
 Secretary, Linda Montross
 Treasurer, Max Meador (Virginia Episcopal)

The slate received unanimous approval from the membership.

Laurie Covington announced the retirement of long-time CAV Tournament Director, Susan Schearer, from that post. She also announced that Ian Hochberg will take on that awesome responsibility with Kathy Smerke continuing in her role to disseminate the awards. Each of the three contest directors announced the place-winners of the 2008 contests. The Lurlene Todd Award went to Flint Hill School's Howard Chang; the Wayne Wray CAV Student Scholarship, to Imran Husain from Park View HS in Loudoun County; the Angela Lloyd Award, to Dr. Amy R. Cohen of Randolph College in Lynchburg. The citations read on behalf of each of these award winners are excerpted within this newsletter. [See page 4.]

Announcements followed before the group moved to Anderson Hall for papers presented by Professor Rebecca L. Benefiel of Washington and Lee University, Professor Fred Franko of Hollins University, and Professor Jeffrey Becker of the College of William & Mary. Following the handing of the gavel by President Gregory Daugherty over to 2008-2010 CAV President Laurie Covington and her adjournment of the meeting, members joined in fellowship at the home of Professor Barbette Spaeth.

CAV PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Salvete Omnes,

As this is my first letter as CAV President, let me begin by saying how much I look forward to working with all of you this year. There is much to be done, from increasing member participation to beginning preparation for our upcoming Centennial, and I am anxious to begin work on all of it. First, however, let me express my gratitude and appreciation to Greg Daugherty for all that he has done for our organization over the past two years of his presidency and especially for the help and guidance he has given me as I prepare to attempt filling his very big shoes.

We enjoyed a wonderful meeting at the College of William & Mary on May 3rd. I want to thank our speakers who made the day such a success – Rebecca Benefiel of Washington and Lee University, Fred Franko of Hollins University, and Jeffrey Becker of the College of William & Mary. Thanks go also to Cheryl Ryan, who has worked tirelessly over the past few years as the editor of the CAV newsletter. It was announced at the fall meeting that Cheryl has decided to step down this year for a much needed break and a chance to turn her full concentration back onto her students at Lylburn Downing Middle School. Cathy Daugherty has kindly agreed to take on the position of newsletter editor. In addition, Susan Scheerer has announced that she is retiring from the position of CAV Latin Tournament Director after ten long years of writing, proofreading, organizing, and spearheading the oldest state Latin examination in the nation. Her Herculean efforts in taming this beautiful beast have contributed much to the continued long-term success of the exam, and we owe her a huge debt of gratitude for all she has done. Even though she “still loves this job,” Susan will now have much more time in the spring for the travel she also dearly enjoys. Ian Hochberg of St. Stephen's & St. Agnes has graciously accepted the position of tournament director. He will begin seeking willing souls as test writers and proof-readers for next year's exam, so please be open to the opportunity to help out.

I have been in communication with Helen Small at the Virginia Department of Education and am very pleased to announce that we have worked out a return of the very successful Latin Immersion Weekend again this Fall. Liane Houghtalin of the University of Mary Washington will serve as its director. Anyone interested in assisting Liane in this exciting endeavor should contact her as soon as possible. Information about dates and topic is forthcoming and will be posted on the website as soon as all is determined.

It is not too late to register for this summer's ACL Institute, which will be held at the University of New Hampshire on June 27-29. As always, several of our own CAV members will be among those presenting sessions over the course of the weekend; and it is a wonderful opportunity to re-energize after the long school year and to catch up with old friends from across the country. I encourage you to visit the ACL website to see what topics of interest this year's institute has to offer for you. In addition to the prepared program, time has been set aside for a session with AP teachers to discuss the College Board's decision to discontinue the Latin Literature Exam, a move with far-reaching implications for Latin programs across the nation. It is my hope that by working together and in cooperation with the College Board, we will find a workable compromise to the loss of an entire area of AP study.

I look forward to seeing all of you at the Fall CAV meeting on Sept. 20th at the University of Virginia. Please make it a point to bring a colleague who may be new to Virginia classics or who has not previously been involved with the CAV. Fresh new faces are always welcome! In the meantime, I hope you have a restful and rewarding summer.

Ex animo,

Laurie T. Covington, 2008-2010 CAV President

THE CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION OF VIRGINIA TEACHER PLACEMENT SERVICE

The Placement Service of the Classical Association of Virginia offers Teachers of Latin a free program to bring together teachers seeking Latin positions in Virginia and schools in Virginia which are seeking Latin teachers. Schools send us listings of their positions, and we send these listings by e-mail to the teachers who have registered with the CAV Placement Service. We provide continuous updates from March until September.

If you know of a position available, have the school principal or personnel office get in touch with the service. If you wish a position, send in your name and e-mail address.

We ask both school and teachers to contact us by e-mail at: jdm9x@virginia.edu . . . Jon D. Mikalson

There are no charges for these services!

CAV AWARDS - 2008

Wayne A. Wray CAV Student Scholarship: Imran Husain

Citation written and presented by Kevin Perry

The 2008 recipient of the Wayne W. Wray CAV Student Scholarship is Imran Husain of Park View High School. Indeed, his academic record supports his eligibility for this award. Four consecutive Gold Medals on the National Latin Exam, three consecutive Gold Medals on the Medusa Mythology Exam, innumerable VJCL exam high scores, and a place on the Virginia NJCL Certamen team. 2007 certainly was a busy and fruitful one for this young man. Imran attended the Virginia Governor's Latin Academy, even earning a role in the production of Plautus' Rudens. Shortly after the end of the academy, Imran served as a representative to the NJCL Convention, thereby becoming a face for the study of Latin in a Washington Post Magazine article featuring students from northern Virginia. In November, Imran took on an additional responsibility as the VJCL Second Vice President. However, what his Latin teachers, Paul Perrot and Howard Chang, had to say shed the brightest light on this young man.

Magister Chang described Imran as "an accessible, earnest young man with outstanding personal qualities and character" and that "without a doubt, Imran became the banner student of the Park View Latin program and his contributions deserve substantial credit in my push to reach those goals." Magister Perrot related how Imran's "sense of generosity reaches beyond (...) personal achievement" teaching review classes and helping fellow Latinists prepare for certamen and the Medusa Mythology Exam. Additionally, Magister Perrot declares that "Imran Husain demonstrates his potential to become an outstanding classicist with every step."

I am honored both to have worked with Imran at the Latin Academy and to present the Wayne A. Wray Scholarship award to this young man. Next fall, Imran Husain plans on studying Classics here at the College of William & Mary.

Lurlene W. Todd Teacher of the Year Award: Professor Amy R. Cohen

Citation written and presented by Vanessa Zeiner

"I am having a hard time reducing the profound influence that [this woman] has had in my life to a few pages." These are the opening words from one recommendation about this year's recipient of the Lurlene W. Todd Award for Excellence in Teaching. This year's recipient is worthy for many reasons, but that which is consistently mentioned is her love and enthusiasm for Greek as well as the theater.

Classes in ancient Greek and Greek mythology have blossomed under her umbrage. Once offered in alternate years, they are now offered annually. Her colleague at Randolph College refers to this recipient as "my department's secret weapon" for her ability to "reach out early and often to able students as well as to engage them academically, socially, and personally." On campus her "Picky Writing Rules" are legendary; their success in improving student writing was such that her rules have been adopted by several other departments on campus.

It is for her productions of ancient Greek drama that this recipient is most highly praised. Her energy is invaluable for she is producer, director, entrepreneur, publicist, and business manager. The productions are by no means limited to Randolph students and faculty; they are community events. Public elementary and high school students, college students from Sweetbriar, Hampden-Sydney, Hollins, Washington and Lee. The 2006 performance of Aristophanes' Clouds had over 1100 in attendance. One letter comments, "for an enchanted hour or so, on a few special autumn days, our students and their audiences can experience that seemingly distant and long-ago world of 5th century Athens."

This recipient honored today for her excellence and enthusiasm in the classroom, for making Classics vital in today's world, and especially—to borrow the closing words from another letter—"for making the Classics come alive—literally," is Dr. Amy R. Cohen, this year's Lurlene W. Todd Teacher of the Year.

Angela Lloyd Book Award: Howard Chang

The 2008 recipient of the Angela Lloyd Book Award is Howard Chang of Flint Hill School. In announcing the winner Mark Keith, the 2007 recipient of this award, cited information written about Chang in the application submitted for this award. Excerpts from that application are quoted in part here: "Howard is, simply put, a remarkable teacher. His energy is boundless and his creativity delightful. He has that rare quality of making Latin fun while, at the same time, demanding excellence. Whether he is making up songs for spirit contests, using rap music to teach inflection, or having students do the real grunt work of writing Latin sentences, Howard is always the same -- smiling, joking, moving about the room, giving attention to every student, and passing on his deep love of the language. When he came to Flint Hill he brought with him wonderful ideas for getting students involved in Latin outside their regular class period. Each Thursday after school he holds peer tutoring sessions in his classroom, luring the tentative Latin students in to work with those whose grasp of the language is excellent. It works remarkably well for both the learner and the peer teacher....everyone's Latin gets better, and they have a good time with each other in the bargain.

"It would never be enough for Howard Chang simply to be a superb classroom teacher. He has also taken on the role of certamen guru...not just for FHS, but for the entire state. As sponsor of the Virginia Senior Classical League, Howard has worked with these college students (a job sometimes like pulling teeth) to prepare, coordinate and run both the Virginia Kick-off and State Finals certamina. He has written more questions about more classical topics than most of us can think of, and re-written even more than that. He is indefatigable in his quest to make every one of these certamina the best it can be...and he has succeeded. Howard is the poster-boy for the infusion of youth, vigor and genuine substance back into Virginia certamen. Howard is also a true 'life-long learner.' He is ever on the look-out for new courses, new programs, new ways to infuse his teaching with life and scholarship."

Howard Chang selected Classical Mythology by Morford/Lenardon for the book prize associated with this annual award.

NEW CAMWS-SS Award: Presidential Award for Outstanding Graduate Student Paper

Beginning in 2008, the Southern Section of CAMWS will award the Presidential Award for the Outstanding Graduate Student Paper at its biennial meeting. Eligible are graduate students whose paper is accepted on the program and who will not have received their Ph.D. by the time it is read. The text of the oral talk is submitted at least one month in advance of the meeting. The award is presented at the business meeting, even though the winner might not yet have read it by the time of the meeting.

Criteria for evaluation and information on applying for this new SS award are given at the organization's website. The deadline for submissions is midnight October 17, 2008. For more information you may also contact: T. Keith Dix, CAMWS-SS President via email address, tkdix@uga.edu.

SUBMISSIONS for The CAV Newsletter

The CAV Newsletter is published three times a year: Fall, Winter/Spring, and Summer. The deadlines for materials to be submitted are August 1-Fall Issue, November 1-Winter/Spring Issue, May 1-Summer Issue. Submissions may be made at any time PRIOR to these deadlines, but materials received after these deadlines will not make that issue.

The editor is interested in including notices of contests, course offerings, lectures, exhibits, theatrical performances, presentations, and scholarships, etc. that may be of interest to members of The Classical Association of Virginia.

Please send all submissions (preferably as an e-mail attachment with documents in WORD and pictures in JPEG format) to:

Cathy P. Daugherty, Editor

804-752-7231 (office fax)

The editor welcomes your comments as she experiments with different formats, styles and fonts in creating this newsletter.

ADDRESS CHANGES

Changes in your address and/or school affiliation should be sent to CAV Treasurer, Max Meador, to ensure that the CAV database remains up-to-date.

NOTA BENE

There will again be funding to offer another Foreign Language Immersion Weekend for Latin teachers early in the 2008-2009 school year. Information will be forthcoming. Professor Liane Houghtalin (University of Mary Washington) will head up the project this year.

Deadline dates for The CAV News: August 1, November 1, May 1
