Fall Meeting Speakers Set

Two speakers will highlight the program at the CAV Fall Meeting in Charlottesville. Jack Wells, Associate Professor of History at Emory & Henry will present, "Powerful Women in Ancient Empires: Case Studies from Rome and China." His research, focuses on the political, social and cultural history of the Roman Republic and on the religious history of the Ancient Mediterranean. Elza C. Tiner, Professor of English & Latin at the School of Humanities & Social Sciences, Lynchburg College will address the group with "Quomodo Scimus?: Teaching Reading, Writing and Speaking in Latin through Research on the History of Disciplines." Tiner received her M.A. & Ph.D. degrees from the University of Toronto and from the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, Toronto. Both speakers promise to broaden the classical experience for attendees.

Caligula Comes To Life At VMFA

by Peter J. Schertz, Ph.D., Curator of Ancient Art, VMFA

For nearly a year, a team of international scholars has been doing new research focused on VMFA's star example of ancient sculpture – the statue of Emperor Gaius, a.k.a. "Caligula." The results will be presented at the symposium "Caligula 3-D: Man, Myth, Emperor" at VMFA on Sunday, December 4, 2011 from 9:30 a.m. – 5 p.m. in the Leslie Cheek Theater at the VMFA in Richmond. Admission is free, but tickets are required (Visit www.VMFA.museum/symposia/caligula for info and updates).

Using advanced scanning technologies, we have been able to produce highly detailed (accurate to 0.25 mm!) 3-D digital renderings of the statue that have enabled us to virtually reconstruct the missing parts of the statue, correct previous restorations, and hypothesize (on the basis of new examinations) the statue's original polychromy.

Participants in the symposium will discuss issues that pertain directly to the proposed reconstructions of the statue (Bernie Frischer, UVA; Mark Abbe, UGA; Jan Stubbe Østergaard, Ny Carlsberg Glyptotek; Kathy Gillis, VMFA's senior objects conservator); issues in the artistic representation of the Caligula (John Pollini, USC; Eric Varner, Emory University); Caligula as a historical person (Steven Fine, Yeshiva University; Vasily Ruditch, Independent Scholar); and the ancient and modern history and presentation of the statue (Maria Picozzi, La Sapienza; Paolo Livorani, University of Florence; Peter Schertz, VMFA). Many of the topics are not without controversy, and the discussion promises to be both lively and stimulating.

This project, funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, was undertaken as part of project-director Bernard Frischer's (UVA) Digital Sculpture Project (<http://www.digitalsculpture.org>).

CAV PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Salvete Omnes,

See you all soon—10 September 2011 in Charlottesville—for the fall meeting of the academic year, though we need a catchy name: “centennial + one” doesn’t quite have a ring to it.

We will have two speakers at this meeting, about whom you will read elsewhere in this newsletter. Both are new to the Classical Association of Virginia, and this highlights a new effort we have begun to spread the influence and presence of our association in the schools and colleges of the state. The most immediate manifestation of this effort is the appointment of two new membership chairs—they will keep records of our members, coordinate communication, and expand our membership by renewing or creating contacts in public schools, private schools, colleges, and universities. The two are Patricia Lister and Janice Siegel—welcome and thanks to both. All of you can help them in their job by bringing to our meetings new colleagues, friends, relatives, ...

This is also the last newsletter for our multitalented editor, Cathy Daugherty. We all know how that for many years she has been a central and crucial and collegial and indispensable player in the Classical Association of Virginia. I am at a loss for what to say, so just a collective and heartfelt thank you. nos omnes gratias maximas tibi agimus. She will certainly be a tough act to follow, but I hope that doesn’t inhibit one of our members from stepping in to carry the flag.

Finally, the 2012 spring meeting will be held May 5 in Blacksburg at Virginia Tech. I hope you will all plan to come (we in the more westerly parts of the state sometimes like to feel the love, too). We have developed a thriving program in Latin, Ancient Greek, and Classical Studies and would like to show it off a bit. I know it’s a drive for some of you, but come and enjoy the New River Valley for a night or two. More on this soon.

Andrew S. Becker

CAV AWARDS - 2011

Wayne W. Wray CAV Student Scholarship: James Potter

The 2011 recipient of the Wayne W. Wray CAV Student Scholarship is James Lindsay Potter, a graduate of E.C. Glass High School in Lynchburg. In addition to completing the full high school curriculum of Latin under Mr. William Altman, James has studied Latin with Dr. Robert Lloyd, professor emeritus of Randolph-Macon Woman's College and Dr. Susan Stevens at Randolph College. Dr. Stevens, when recommending Potter for this award, described him as a "real lover of learning—a walking, talking encyclopedia of things Latin, Roman and classical. Potter will continue his studies this fall at Randolph College.

Angela Lloyd Book Award: Alana Lukes

The 2011 recipient of the Angela Lloyd Book Award, Alana Lukes, began her Latin career at Ohio State University where, in 1971, she earned her M.A. in Classics. She has taught Latin, Classical Culture, Greek Etymology, and English at Paul VI High School in Fairfax County since 1986 and has served as chair of the World Languages Department at the school since 2007. Additionally, she is a frequent presenter at ACL, FCLTA, and CAAS. She has also contributed journal articles on topics as varied as the Pro Caelio and Rainy Day Activities for the Latin classroom. Her work has appeared in Prima CANE, and The Classical Outlook. She has devoted much time to curriculum committees, the Medusa Myth Exam, and the CAV Latin Tournament and CAV Classical Essay contests. When Kevin Gushman announced Lukes as the recipient of this award, she referred to her as "one of the most generous teachers I have had the pleasure to know... always willing to help out a fellow Latin teacher."

Lurlene W. Todd Award: Ian Hochberg

Ian Nathaniel Hochberg is the recipient of the Lurlene W. Todd Teacher of the Year Award for 2011. He teaches at St. Stephen's & St. Agnes School in Alexandria where he has been an integral part of the Latin program since 2002. Ian graduated magna cum laude with Bachelor of Arts in Classics from Brown University in 1997. Hochberg has been extremely active in the Latin program and the school, teaching five levels of Latin, sponsoring an active Latin Club, National Latin Honor Society, and certamen teams, coaching varsity boys soccer, being an advisor to students and mentor to teachers, serving as class dean, and contributing to several school committees. Outside of school he is a member of numerous professional organizations supporting Latin and the Classics, including serving as chair of the CAV Tournament Committee for the past few years..

HOGAN PRIZE ANNOUNCEMENT

The College of William & Mary announces the continuation of the Hogan Prize in Classical Studies. For the academic year 2012-2013 a $1000 grant will be available for an entering student who has completed with distinction at least three years of Latin or Greek at the time of graduation. Application forms can be downloaded at <http://www.wm.edu/classicalstudies/hoganapplication.pdf>. Send the completed form to: Dr. John F. Donahue, Dept. of Classical Studies, College of William & Mary, PO Box 8795, Williamsburg, VA 23187-8795.

The application deadline is March 1, 2012. This award is contingent upon successful admission to the College. The grantee will be expected to enroll during his/her freshman year in at least three courses offered by the department (two must be in Greek or Latin). The grant may be renewed during subsequent years provided grade requirements and course registration in classics are met. Preference will be given to applicants contemplating a concentration in the Department of Classical Studies.

A NEW DEAL FROM CAMWS

Any first-time teacher who joins the Classical Association of the Middle West and South in 2011-2012 will receive the discounted first-time teacher membership rate of $25, not just this year, but also in 2012-2013 and 2013-2014. CAMWS is a great deal at the regular membership rate of $45, as well ($25 for a student or any new CAMWS member). Benefits of membership include the CAMWS annual meeting, a subscription to The Classical Journal, and eligibility for grants. Visit the CAMWS web site (<http://www.camws.org/>) to learn more, or ask your CAMWS Vice President for Virginia, Liane Houghtalin (lhoughta@umw.edu).
