Fall Speakers Discuss Technology and AP Authors

We are happy to welcome to our fall meeting Christopher Francese, Professor of Classical Languages at Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA, who will talk to us about "Digital Commentary on Classical Texts: Problems and Prospects." As project director for Dickinson Classical Commentaries, he has worked to create a series of classical texts with notes, vocabulary, and digital enhancements to help learners and teachers of Latin. Among the texts are the AP selections from Caesar's De Bello Gallico.

Professor Francese received his B.A. in Greek from Oberlin College and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin. He specializes in Roman literature and culture and Greek mythology. He is the author of Ancient Rome in So Many Words (Hippocrene, 2007) and an upcoming publication titled The Civilization of Ancient Rome: An Anthology of Sources (Hackett, 2013).

Our second speaker for the meeting will be a familiar face. John F. Miller, Professor of Classics at the University of Virginia and Chair of the Department, as well as a former CAV President (2002-2004), will be presenting "Some Apolline Moments in Virgil's Aeneid," which will be drawn from a section of his new book Apollo, Augustus, and the Poets. This book was awarded the 2010 Charles J. Goodwin Award of Merit by the American Philological Association. At the 2012 APA conference in Philadelphia his book was a launching point for a panel of scholars, of whom one praised his book for its "amazing dynamism." A graduate of Xavier University, he has an M.A. in Comparative Literature and a Ph.D. in Classics from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

CAV PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Salvete Omnes,

In the last few years, I can't tell you the number of people at CAMWS, APA-AIA and ACL who have commented to me about how impressive the state of Virginia is. I'm sure that we are all astonished by the number of Virginia classicists leading the way in so many areas: NLE, the Medusa Mythology Exam, Greek theater in performance, NEH opportunities, teacher preparation, Latin Academy, archaeology, certamen, Eta Sigma Phi, textbook writing, JCL, research, and on and on. And we are all doing these things on top of our day jobs! You can sense the activity at CAV meetings. Middle school, high school and university level lovers of ancient Greek and Latin converge to catch up on our profession and our friends. The familiarity and support we enjoy make us strong.

Come join in this camaraderie. Our fall meeting will be September 22nd at the University of Virginia. We are pleased to welcome Chris Francese from Dickinson College who will talk about the online digital commentaries his school has put together. John Miller will discuss part of his new book, which won the distinguished Charles J. Goodwin Award of Merit by the APA. Perhaps you will win the raffle and receive a donated copy of John's book with the proceeds benefitting our new Professional Development Fund. We will spotlight one high school and one university Classics program so that we can find out what is going on around the state.

The morning reception before the meeting, the luncheon at noon, and the reception afterwards at John and Mary Miller's house will give us a chance to chat and network. If Saturday isn't enough time to talk to everyone, why not come early and spend the night? We will use the Cavalier Inn as our base before we gather for dinner at the Boathouse Grill at 7 p.m. on Friday the 21st. E-mail me if you'd like to be included in the dinner reservations. All are welcome, including family, friends, and college students.

Our Constitutional Revision Committee has met and will make a few proposals to be voted on at the Executive Committee meeting and then at the business meeting. There are a few suggested changes which will coincide with our current practices and some changes in wording which will reflect the 21st century.

One of our membership chairmen, Patty Lister, has been gathering e-mail addresses with plans to send out a reminder about registration for the pre-paid luncheon at our meeting. You don't want to miss the wonderful Italian buffet.

Best wishes for a successful start to the new school year. Hope to see you at the meeting September 22nd .

*Ex animo,
Margaret*

A Face in the Crowd: Get to Know a CAV Member

In each issue of the CAV News there will be an article about a member. I hope this will help you get to know other members and continue the camaraderie between meetings.

R. Maxwell Meador, or “Max”, has been the treasurer for the Classical Association of Virginia for the past ten years.

Max retired in 2002 after 44 years at the Virginia Episcopal School, a college preparatory and boarding school in Lynchburg, Virginia.

During his time at the Virginia Episcopal School Max taught all levels of Latin. He was also very active in the school’s athletics program, coaching both the baseball and the football teams.

Throughout his career, Max also served in many different administrative roles. For the last twenty years of his career at the Virginia Episcopal School he served as the Assistant Headmaster.

ROME PRIZE
AMERICAN ACADEMY IN ROME

The American Academy in Rome invites applications for the Rome Prize competition. Rome Prize winners will reside at the Academy’s eleven-acre center in Rome and will receive room and board, a study or studio, and a stipend. Stipends for six-month fellowships are $14,500 and stipends for eleven-month fellowships are $27,000. Fellowships are awarded in the following fields: Architecture, Design, Historic Preservation and Conservation, Landscape Architecture, Literature, Musical Composition, Visual Arts, Ancient Studies, Medieval Studies, Renaissance and Early Modern Studies, and Modern Italian Studies.

For further information, or to apply, please visit www.aarome.org or contact the American Academy in Rome, 7 East 60 Street, New York, NY 10022, Attn: Programs. 212-751-7200. c.jennings@aarome.org or info@aarome.org

NUNTIANDA... Info of note to CAV Members

Think Globally with CAMWS

You are acting locally through your membership in CAV. Now, think globally (well, almost globally) by joining the Classical Association of the Middle West and South. 2012 – 2013 membership is just $25 for students, first-time teachers, and new CAMWS members, and just $45 to renew. (First-time teachers who joined in 2011 – 2012 may renew through 2013 – 2014 at just $25/year – what a great deal that was!) As a CAMWS member, you can really go places and do things. CAMWS Southern Section will be meeting in Tallahassee at the invitation of Florida State University, November 1-3, 2012; and all of CAMWS – representing 32 states and 3 Canadian provinces – will meet in Iowa City at the University of Iowa, April 17 – 20, 2013. Useful presentations, a book exhibit, and a chance to talk Latin and even in Latin. Check into the CAMWS grants and awards for travel to Greece and Italy, too. Keep up to date with the latest news and scholarship. Members receive the Classical Journal (electronic or hard copy – your choice) and the CAMWS Newsletter (delivered electronically). CAMWS helps in the classroom, too, with grants for activities to promote Latin and the classics. If you would like to sign up today go to <http://www.camws.org/membership/> You will be glad you did. Questions? Ask Liane Houghtalin, CAMWS Vice President for Virginia, lhoughta@umw.edu

The University of North Carolina, Greensboro, M.Ed in Latin

A part-time, online degree program for Latin teachers who have already obtained initial licensure. The degree requires 30 semester hours of coursework and concentrates on the study of Latin language and literature, with additional study in history, classical civilization, and professional education.

Courses are offered both during the school year and the summer; summer courses are usually in an intensive three-week format. The successful candidate will be eligible to apply for advanced licensure in North Carolina. Depending upon the student's academic background, the degree is usually completed in 3 years.

News and updates on Classical Studies at Virginia Tech

For further information please email Dr. Andrew Becker at: andrew.becker@vt.edu

Classical Studies Major: We currently have 53 majors and about 30 minors (there are three tracks for minors: Classical Studies, Classical Languages, and Latin, and the number of students varies). Most of our majors choose to double major, whether in a related field (e.g., History, Religion, Art History, English, Philosophy, Spanish, etc.) or some other area of interest to them (in the past few years we've had double majors with, e.g., Architecture, Chemistry, Psychology, Biology, Biochemistry, Animal Science, Computer Science, Geology, etc.).

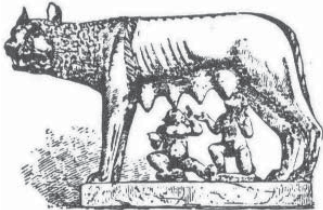

Courses: We offer a range of courses in ancient Greek, Latin, ancient Roman and Greek history, literature, culture, religion, philosophy, art, archaeology, etc. (and a few on the ancient near east and Egypt), taught by award-winning teachers, many with multiple awards, as well as active scholars in the field.

Study Abroad: Virginia Tech runs summer courses in Greece and Rome, and we also send students on many other programs, depending on their interests, for a summer term, a semester, or a year. We have close connections with the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies at Rome, and archaeological digs in Cyprus & Bulgaria.

Undergraduate Research: (tailored individually, between student and faculty mentor). We have had 7 recent students give conference papers on their research, and one has published an article.

Activities: Weekly Classics Tables, movie nights, road trips for classical events and lectures, special occasions (e.g., Saturnalia and Bacchanalia), and reading marathons. There is an annual endowed lectureship: The Virginia Hummel Lecture in Classical Studies. And there is also the Virginia Hummel Book Prize for graduating seniors.

Deadlines for the CAV News submissions: Aug 1, Nov 1, Mar 1, May 1
